

From the desk of:
Ross Monroe Nibur

To whom it may concern,

I am deeply concerned by the repeated attempts by Internet Service Providers and the FCC to revoke Net Neutrality Rules. An open internet is core to the functioning of our modern economy and denying of consumers the right to choose the services of their preference will cause irrevocable harm to the ability of the ideal free market that internet provides to flourish.

Further, it has become clear that Chairman Pai is not an unbiased party without personal interests in the revoking of these policies. He stands to gain personally from the revoking of New Neutrality through his professional ties to Verizon where he worked for many years. I know that these comments will fall on deaf ears with him and I hope that the remaining staff of the FCC will take the time to safe-guard the American people from this shameless power grab.

Thank you for your time.
Ross Nibur